Roy Dunbar elected to board of Johnson Controls

2017-06-14

CORK, Ireland, June 14, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- The board of directors of Johnson Controls, (NYSE: JCI), today elected W. Roy Dunbar to serve as a director, effective immediately. Dunbar is founder and CEO of private companies focused on renewable energy and real estate development.

He served in roles as CEO and Chairman of Network Solutions which was subsequently acquired by Web.com. Dunbar also was president of Global Technology and Operations at MasterCard and previously spent over a decade at Eli Lilly where he served as president Intercontinental Region and chief information officer. In 2003 he was named CIO of the Year by Information Week.

"Roy Dunbar brings to our board strong leadership across a number of functional disciplines and his leadership is characterized by adaptability and agility with a career spanning healthcare, information technology, the Internet and renewable energy," said Alex Molinaroli, chairman and CEO, Johnson Controls.

Dunbar graduated from Manchester University in the United Kingdom with a pharmacy degree and a master of business administration degree from Manchester Business School.
